PROFILE

Accomplished concert pianist with extensive international engagements in solo, chamber, and orchestral repertoire. Experienced university-level piano professor with a passion for musical transformation, artistic depth, and European pianistic tradition. My professional mission unites stage and studio: I strive to perform internationally as a soloist, while simultaneously mentoring advanced pianists in academic environments.

Active Across Europe and Asia with teaching roles in renowned institutions and a focus on intercultural projects and music education.

“The piano is my instrument of transfiguration – it has the power to turn everything into beauty.”
